TERRIBLE CALAMITY FOR TAMPA

While Bob McNamee is Absent Carrie Nation Hits the Town

(Tribune, 22nd.)

For the purpose of waging a war of extermination against the saloon and to advance the interests of the movement for women suffrage, Mrs. Carrie Nation of hatchet fame, is in Tampa. Tampa saloonists may feel shaky until the return from Ocala of Robert McNamee, the Napoleon of the Florida "wets," to defend them from the attacks of the most spectacular temperance leader in the world. "I am here," Mrs. Nation declares, "to wage a hot prohibition campaign in Florida."

Mrs. Nation arrived here last night over the Atlantic Coast Line, engaging rooms at the Palmetto Hotel. The first thing that she asked for on her arrival was to see a newspaper man. "I never feel that I have reached my destination until I have seen a reporter," she declared. Mrs. Nation's unheralded advent into this city will cause a profound sensation. The last heard of her was in Mexico, where she took occasion to severely score the Catholic church, and from whence she came directly to Tampa, stopping over briefly at Baton Rouge and another point. Mrs. Nation will remain in Florida two or three months, being in Tampa a large portion of the time. She will at first spend a few days in Bradentown and neighboring cities, leaving for there this afternoon and later returning to Tampa.

"I am not in favor of local option," said Mrs. Nation, "but believe in the policy of annihilation by not allowing a drop of liquor to be manufactured. This is the plan that has proved successful in 'Little Finland.' I am also in favor of enfranchising women, as I do not believe in 'taxation without representation,' and I believe that according to the constitution women should vote, for the constitution says that the nation shall be governed by the will of the people, and I insist that women are 'people' just the same as men. My home is in Kentucky, so you can see that I am a southerner instead of a westerner, although I lived in Kansas for nine years. I am at present living in Washington, D. C., where I am publishing a paper called 'The Hatchet.'"

Asked if she had abandoned the hatchet method against the saloon, Mrs. Nation declared that she had, and now is relying principally on moral suasion, thereby dealing with the cause instead of the effect. She then inquired for local news and asked of the progress being made by temperance advocates in this section. Mrs. Nation declared that she would communicate with Rev. W. J. Carpenter at once regarding local affairs. Mrs. Nation while at Bradentown will visit Francis Trueblood, who, she says, has been writing to her for two years to come to Florida.

Besides visiting this section of the state, Mrs. Nation will tour the east coast and west Florida. Before the interview terminated, Mrs. Nation presented the reporter with a handsome "hatchet" pin with her name embossed on the handle.

CITY MAY NOT COLLECT

Taxes on Lumber Shipped in From Another State

Washington, Jan. 22.—The case of Darnell vs. the city of Memphis, Tenn., involving the right of the city to collect taxes on saw logs owned by Darnell, who is a lumber manufacturer, was decided yesterday by the supreme court of the United States against the city. There are $20,000 worth of logs, and Darnell claimed that inasmuch as they were brought from various parts of the country, a levy upon them would be equivalent to a tax on interstate commerce. Justice White said that in view of the provisions of the Tennessee constitution against a tax on articles manufactured in Tennessee, the tax is discrimination and therefore antagonistic to the constitution. To recognize the right of the state to tax logs brought in from another state, he said, would be to recognize the power of one place to embargo on the products of another, which is not permissible.

MINE WORKERS CONVENTION

In Session at Indianapolis—Rates to Be Discussed with Operators Next Week

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.—The 19th annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America opened yesterday and will probably remain in session until January 30th, which is the date set for the assembling of miners and operators to discuss the interstate wage agreement in the central competitive field. Should the mine operators decline to come to an agreement over the matter, the men in convention will then determine their future course. This is probably the most important matter to come before the convention.

Mitchell Will Retire

President John Mitchell, who has been at the head of the organization of miners for a number of years, retires with this convention.
